

bottom. Thus, the total number of perforations 2 in this case is 9 (nine).

CLAIMS:

5 1. A seedling pot for raising fruit crop seedlings, the pot being a molded piece formed of boiled fibers of bamboo and Gramineae plant such as ditch reed, a supplementary component and urea as an additive, the supplementary component being blended with a palm product and com-posed of at least one material selected from the group consisting of a 10 carbonized plant material obtained by heating a nonwoody plant, a calcium-rich waste powder such as powdered bones and powdery foul droppings.

2. A seedling pot for raising fruit crop seedlings, the pot being a molded piece formed of boiled fibers of bamboo and Gramineae plant such 15 as ditch reed, a supplementary component, as well as urea and a silicon dioxide powder as additives, the supplementary component being blended with a palm product and composed of at least one material selected from the group consisting of a carbonized plant material obtained by heating a non-woody plant, a calcium-rich waste powder such as powdered bones and 20 powdery foul droppings.

3. A seedling pot as defined in claim 1 or 2 and having a bottom and a periphery, wherein at least one perforation is formed in either of or both the bottom and periphery.

4. A seedling pot as defined in claim 1 or 2, wherein the carbonized
25 plant material is made from buckwheat chaff, tea dregs, oil cakes, coffee grounds or the like.

5. A seedling pot as defined in claim 1 or 2, wherein the calcium